School Aid Threatens Congress Closing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fight between urban and rural congressmen over federal school aid funds threatens to slow down Congress' rush to adjourn by week's end.

House and Senate conferees met until near midnight Wednesday in an effort to agree on a formula for funding the Elementary and Secondary School Act but broke up in wide disagreement.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told the House earlier

Congress could not adjourn without passing a bill extending the act. But unless agreement comes promptly today he is likely to run into heavy pressure to put it over until next year.

The school bill is one of four measures congressional leaders want to wrap up before the session ends, but it will take a firm hand to hold the homeward-bound legislators in Washington past Friday night.

There also could be trouble with another of the bills. Senate liberals are balking at some proposed welfare aid restrictions in a measure that would boost Social Security benefits and taxes. There is talk of trying to delay final action on it until next year.

The other two bills, appropriating funds for the foreign-aid and anti-poverty programs, moved forward Wednesday and should get another boost today.

A $2.3 billion foreign-aid bill agreed to by House and Senate conferees is expected to win quick approval in the House. And the Senate is expected to pass a $1.98 billion appropriation for the anti-poverty program approved by its Appropriations Committee.

Although the House has voted only $1.6 billion for the anti-poverty program, little difficulty is expected in reaching a compromise at about the $1.78 billion figure that Director Sargent Shriver of the Office of Economic Opportunity says he needs to continue the program at its present level of operations. In the school bill conference, members from urban areas are quarrelling with rural representatives over proposed changes in the formula for allocating funds that would increase the amounts going to rural areas at the expense of large Northern cities.

The problem arises because President Johnson, seeking to hold down federal spending, budgeted only half the amount for the program that Congress authorized, making the existing formula inoperative.

General Named Regent; Athens Reported Calm

ATHENS (AP) — Greece's military regime crushed today the last remnants of a counter-coup led by King Constantine and began a roundup of suspected royalist officers and rightist politicians.

The 27-year-old king, stripped of his power and his day-old dream of ousting the military government, fled to Rome with his family. He had no comment.

Col. George Papadopoulos, strong man of the military regime and now premier, announced in a broadcast that Lt. Gen. George Zolotas, undersecretary of national defense, had been installed as regent.

Papadopoulos later told reporters the constitutional monarchy would be preserved and the king had voluntarily surrendered his functions.

Greeks learned for the first time late in the day that their king had fled. Papadopoulos' news conference was broadcast by Athens radio reporting the royal family, Premier Constantine Kollas and some officers had flown secretly to Rome.

In an early morning broadcast, Papadopoulos declared that the "anticonstitutional conspiracy has been crushed. The conspirators have been ousted."

Less than 24 hours after Constantine called Wednesday on his people to revolt against the ruling colonels in Athens, troops and armored carriers that had ringed the junta headquarters in the Parliament building, were removed. However, armed guards continued to stand outside defense headquarters on the outskirts of the capital.

Fight At Air Base
Military units in northern Greece had been reported siding with the king, but the only reported fighting on the mainland was at Elefsis air force base southwest of Athens. Two army captains attempting to board a plane there for northern Greece were reported shot by troops loyal to the government, and clashes between air force and army units followed. Two buildings caught fire in the fighting.

Fighting also was reported on the Greek island of Crete, scene of the only armed resistance to the junta's takeover eight months ago.

Reports said the king was with the 3rd Armored Army Corps, based in the north, when he appealed to the nation to rebel. Athens Radio said today the commander of the corps, Gen. George Peridis, was among three army generals arrested by the junta.

Widespread arrests of right-wing politicians also were reported in Athens.

The capital was calm today, and people hurried to work as usual. But the government ordered all banks and the stock exchange closed to avert financial panic.

Reports from northern Greece were sketchy because the area was cut off from Athens by road and by telephone. But Athens Radio announced today it had restored radio communications with stations in the north.

It was not immediately known what would happen to military units—reportedly including parts of the air force—that had sided with the king. The junta was reported offering the dissenting units an amnesty in an attempt to avoid bloodshed and restore unity.

Premier Constantine Kollas, the civilian government head named by the colonels who seized power last April 21, accompanied the royal family to Rome after Papadopoulos supplanted him.

Papadopoulos, the new government chief in name as well as in fact, broadcast thanks to the Greek armed forces and Greek people for standing by his government.

"You have saved Greece and its unity," he said. "You proved worthy and acted with determination that surpassed bravery."

"You have protected with self-sacrifice the meaning of true freedom and healthy democracy."

"You have succeeded in making another bloodless April 21," Papadopoulos added in a reference to the army coup in which his junta overthrew Greece's last constitutional parliamentary government.

Legislature Turns From Courts To Open Housing

LANSING (AP) — Legislative leaders agreed Wednesday to abandon the sinking court reorganization bill and turn their attention to the thorny issue of a state open occupancy law.

Meeting with Lt. Gov. William Milliken, the state's top lawmaker—who earlier had promised to act on both measures this year—agreed the House should begin work today on its controversial housing bill.

They planned to try to return to committee the big court bill which, after 12 long days of House debate, appeared further than ever from the two-thirds majority it needed for passage.

Milliken—filling in for Gov. George Romney, who is in Europe campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination—said he felt the housing bill was more important than the court bill. "I have indicated in the past that both bills are important," he said. "But I also made it very clear that enactment of an open housing law before Christmas is absolutely essential to the health of this state and society."

He said he hoped the House could pass the housing bill and send it to the Senate this week. The Senate, he noted, could work on court reorganization while the House took up open occupancy.

This was the reverse of a leadership plan devised in Milliken's office Monday, under which the Senate would work on the housing bill while the House continued with the court measure. Senate Republicans scuttled that idea Tuesday.

Rep. Donald Holbrook, R-Clare, chief sponsor of the court bill, asked that the measure be removed from the House calendar after he lost on a crucial question by an unnecessary tie vote.

If the court bill did go back to committee it could be returned to the floor this year, but that was considered unlikely because so little time remains. Milliken agreed it was "probably not likely."

The housing bill—which is in position for House action as soon as the court reorganization measure is disposed of—prohibits discrimination because of race, color, religion or national origin in most housing transactions.

Real estate brokers found guilty of such bias could be fined up to $1,000 for a first offense and up to $2,000 for a repeat violation. Private individuals would be liable for actual money damages suffered by the victim of discrimination.

A $500 limit on damage liability was deleted from the bill by the House Civil Rights Committee, but was expected to be reinserted by the House.

Even with the $500 ceiling, Milliken said Wednesday, the bill "remains a strong and effective weapon in the open housing field."

The court bill—which would replace Michigan's municipal and justice courts with a new district court system—ran afoul of a coalition of House members from Detroit and northern Michigan who swapped votes to tack on amendments over Holbrook's opposition.

Social Security Bill Delayed By Dixie Objections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate unexpectedly passed the Social Security bill at the start of today's Senate session, then after an angry flareup, reconsidered its action and set a vote on passage for 11 a.m. Friday.

The passage meant opponents of welfare provisions in the bill had lost a chance to engage in a filibuster that might have prevented passage of the bill at this session of Congress or at least delayed adjournment beyond this week.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the deputy Democratic leader, maneuvered the bill to passage shortly after the Senate met with less than a dozen senators present.

However, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield protested strongly that the rights of individual senators had been disregarded.

He asked unanimous consent to have approval of the bill reconsidered. Long objected, saying he had learned from experience that "if you have a filibuster on your hands, you better break it when you can."

In the face of Mansfield's continuing appeals, however, Long said he was willing to have a motion entered to reconsider the vote by which the bill had been passed.

In doing so, he noted he would be in position at any time to table the motion to reconsider. Thus he would be able to cut off any filibuster since the motion would not be debatable.

Only after agreement was reached to vote at 11 a.m. Friday did he consent to have the passage of the bill rescinded and set for a second vote.

House Vote, 388-3
The House okayed the compromise Wednesday on a 388-3 vote after a Senate-House conference committee restored welfare-tightening provisions. The Senate had previously voted to junk or liberalize these provisions as well as to raise Social Security cash benefits.

As passed by the House, the bill would raise benefits for all recipients by at least 13 percent. The monthly minimum would go from $44 to $55 and the maximum would go from $142 to $160.50. And a recipient with a wife 65 or over would get a 50 percent increase in the basic payment.

Once the full effect of the bill is accomplished over several years, a retired couple could get as much as $323 a month.

Will Deny Aid
Social Security taxes also would go up, with a maximum increase of $52.80 a year for those earning more than $6,600. The taxes would be upped the same amounts for employers and there would be additional increases for both in future years.

The increased benefits for 24 million Americans on Social Security rolls would be effective with checks received next March 3.

Defendant Kicks Off Shoes, To Outrage Officer

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Kalamazoo police are looking today for a barefoot defendant, who burst out of a municipal courtroom Wednesday when a judge set his bond at $300.

Police said the man ducked out of the courtroom during arraignment on charges of driving while intoxicated, second offense, and on driving on a revoked driver's license.

A court assistant gave chase, but fell behind after three blocks when the defendant kicked off his shoes and increased his speed.

The court assistant, Louis Luplow, said he then took out his wallet and held it like a gun. He said he yelled, "Stop or I'll shoot." The man glanced back, but continued running.

Police are holding his shoes.

Ford Boss Urges Inflation Curbs

DETROIT (AP) — Board Chairman Henry Ford II, urging a reduction in federal spending and enactment of a 10 per cent surtax to restrain inflation,

Wednesday predicted U.S. auto sales in 1968 would surpass the nine million mark.

Ford, grandson of the founder of Ford Motor Co., and Arjay Miller, the firm's president, touched on a wide range of subjects from politics to Negro employment at their annual Christmas season news conference in suburban Dearborn.

Ford said 1967 U.S. auto sales would be 8.4 million, including 785,000 imports. But he predicted a banner year for 1968 of about 9.3 million sales, second only to the 9.5 million record of 1965.

Ford predicted his firm would take 27 1/2 per cent of the market. The firm has ranged from 23 to 25 per cent in recent years.

Ford blamed low 1967 sales on the 50-day national strike of Ford's auto plants by the United Auto Workers. He termed the strike as "unnecessary as it was costly," and said there was little the company could have done to settle it much sooner.

"The strike was called, in our judgment, because the UAW leadership had decided that a realistic settlement would not be ratified without a strike."

Plywood Venture Announced By Stranahan

Bessemer Getting $2.8 Million Plant

"It takes plenty of hard work, technical know-how and solid financial backing to get a new industry started today," said John Stranahan, treasurer-agent for the Ironwood Timber & Development Corp. of Bessemer.

Stranahan, a veteran in the industrial development business, spoke at the Northern Great Lakes Resource Development Committee Conference in Marquette Tuesday. The parley, which ends today, is being attended by representatives of federal and state agencies, universities and industry from Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The Ironwood company is planning to break ground this spring for a $2.8 million "Finland Method" plywood mill on the former Hendrickson Sawmill property at Bessemer, Stranahan said.

4 Years Planning
The project, almost four years in the planning, is a prime example of local initiative making maximum use of regional timber resources with the help of industrial development experts.

Stranahan came to Gogebic County from California, where he was executive director of the Shasta County Economic Development Committee. He headed the Gogebic Organization for Industrial Development (Go-Ind.) for several years before the Ironwood Timber & Development Corp. was formed through efforts of the Gogebic group.

"Mining companies, railroads, utility firms, banks, churches, labor unions—and other interests—all helped finance our efforts. We had excellent cooperation from the entire area," Stranahan said.

The plywood plant, which will employ about 240 men, will use aspen and other hardwoods of small diameter.

Finland Process
"The process was recently developed by Raute, a plywood manufacturer in Finland," he pointed out. "Some of our equipment will be shipped directly from Finland, the rest will be from domestic suppliers."

Only the smaller trees will be used—not sawtimber, he added.

Although the plant and equipment will cost $2.8 million, capitalization of the company will be nearly $4 million, Stranahan said.

"Eight to 10 main backers are supplying a large portion of the capital; we intend to borrow the rest."

He said Bessemer was an ideal location for such an operation, and that area leaders have built the corporation on solid ground.

Industrial Basics
"In many cases, people try to set up an industry without enough capital, the right kind of technical assistance or an adequate source of raw material," he noted. "Most of the time, it just doesn't work."

He stressed the need for top technical know-how, saying that the Ironwood group brought in experts in the plywood, financing and marketing fields.

"To get top men you have to pay them a high salary, but it's well worth it," he said.

Stranahan stated that the Midwestern plywood market is solid and the demand is constant. He said that Western manufacturers have a hard time competing with area plywood firms.

He predicted plywood manufacturers using smaller timber will have adequate raw material supply in Upper Michigan indefinitely. He noted that Western manufacturers are running out of "large core" timber which their industry is geared to handle.

Seniors Compete For Scholarships

MARQUETTE—Ninety of the Upper Peninsula's top high school seniors will compete for $20,000 in scholarships Saturday, Dec. 16, in Northern Michigan University's Academic Achievement Awards Program.

Top awards, according to Robert Pecotte, NMU financial aid director, will be two $4,000 Edgar L. Harden Scholarships, named in honor of the university's president emeritus. Other four-year scholarships will range from $800 to $2,000.

Participants are required to have a cumulative academic average of at least 3.50 (B plus) or rank in the top five of their graduation class or be National Merit semifinalists.

Speeder Repeats

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Highway Patrolman G.E. Dugan halted a car he said was traveling 85 miles per hour on the Turner Turnpike.

The next day, Dugan reported, he stopped the same motorist going in the opposite direction—again at a speed of 85.

"Do you work all the time?" the chagrined driver asked Dugan.

Bus Slides Off Road; 31 School Children Unhurt

Thirty-one children and the driver were uninjured Wednesday when a school bus slid off the road and into a tree in Masonville Township. It is reported by State Police of the Gladstone post.

Ralph Bjurman, 58, of Rapid River Rte. 2, told officers that he was avoiding an oncoming vehicle when the wheels of the bus caught in the snow and he was unable to turn back onto the roadway. He was traveling in second gear and rather slowly when the accident occurred at 7:50 a. m.

The right front of the bus was damaged when it struck the tree alongside County Road 1-30 in Masonville Township.

Engadine Class Works On School's Woodlands

Now that our nice weather has gone, the Engadine High School Conservation Class has retreated into the building.

For the last 12 weeks, they have been taking advantage of the nice weather and working in the school forest under the direction of their instructor, Patrick Feneley. The class members are John Greenwald, John LeGault, John Matchinski, Dale McCullough, Steve McNeil, Ron O'Neil, Tom Paquin, Lee Polachek, Dean Salter, Charles Vallier, and five girls, Chris Brockman, Joan Marcus, Krystal Shoemaker, Frankie Sullivan, Cheryl Webster, all Juniors.

Their project has been to improve the school forest, which is just north of Engadine, so as to make it more useful and accessible to future classes.

The major tasks were to build a road which can be used by a bus and to improve the nature trails. This involved cutting down trees, limbing others, removal of stumps, and bulldozing and grading. Other accomplishments are the marking of trees and trails and the installing of a new sign at the entrance to the forest on Stimac Road.

While all this was going on, the activities were photographed and an impressive collection of slides has been assembled. This includes before and after shots of the forest areas, and the class at work. Another slide collection presents a photographic catalog of plant species in the forest.

Work in the forest has been done during class time, after school, and on weekends. The facilities of the school shop were used by the members of the class who built the signs.

Girls in the class were active in drawing and duplicating maps of the forest, making the signs, and keeping records of class activities.

The work would not have been possible without the donation of equipment by area residents.

Forestry Plans Lack System

Members of the Northern Great Lakes Resource Development Committee heard preliminary reports from forestry, education - community service, agriculture and business-industry subcommittees at their parley here Tuesday at Northern Michigan University, Marquette.

Reports were brief, as most of the groups are in the early stages of planning. The educational subcommittee has set its next meeting in March in Chippewa Falls, Wis., when representatives from all 118 counties in the tri-state Northern Great Lakes Region will be present.

Representatives of business and industry will meet Jan. 2 in Green Bay, Wis., where plans for correlation of business, industrial, financial, raw material and labor needs will be discussed.

Most advanced of the subcommittee planning is that on forestry. "There are many agencies, committees, groups and organizations working in the field of forestry and on forestry problems. However, many of them proceed on programs without proper consideration of programs in effect - how this program may affect other programs, or the need of the program," the report stated.

"While all work toward a common goal, this goal is often ill defined. A central direction appears to be lacking."

Improvement of communications and coordination of efforts is a major goal of the forestry group - in all three states.

Pleasure Fund Aid To Students

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—In the last 12 years, Wofford College has provided student loans for such things as stereo and hi-fi sets, a trip to a mountain resort, a second-hand car and karate lessons.

All of the loans were granted by the college administration through a "pleasure fund," established 12 years ago by an anonymous Wofford graduate who said he didn't want any students to go through Wofford "without having any fun."

More than 1,500 students have borrowed up to $50 each through the "pleasure fund." Students are charged a $1 "paper fee" which goes back into the fund when the loan is repaid.

Voelker's Ninth Book Published

ISHPEMING — John D. Voelker returns to non-fiction in his newest book, "The Jealous Mistress," to be published next month by Little, Brown & Co.

The book is the ninth to have been written by the Ishpeming author and former State Supreme Court justice, and his publishers report he is now at work on yet another book.

Written under the pen name of Robert Traver, "The Jealous Mistress" is a collection of accounts of actual legal cases in Michigan and elsewhere.

Voelker's other books are "Anatomy of a Murder," the best-selling novel that became a popular motion picture; two other novels, "Hornstein's Boy" and "Laughing Whitefish"; two collections of short stories, "Troublemaker" and "Small Town D. A."; a volume of humorous anecdotes, "Danny and the Boys," and two books about trout fishing, "Trout Madness" and "Anatomy of a Fisherman."

Voelker, who was for many years prosecutor of Marquette County, gave up his active legal career when he retired from the Michigan Supreme Court to devote his time to writing and trout fishing.

Earlier this year he began a series of columns in the Sunday Detroit News on a variety of subjects.

Security Office Aid On Medicare

Persons needing help when sending in claims for Medicare reimbursement of doctor bills can get it at their nearest social security office, according to Arnold T. Williams, social security district manager in Escanaba, 2015 1st Ave., N.

The patient with full Medicare coverage may assign his rights of reimbursement if the doctor agrees. In this case, no receipted bill is necessary, as the physician fills out much of the information on the form.

On the other hand, the patient may pay the doctor, file a claim with Medicare, and receive payment directly from Medicare. In that case an itemized, receipted bill is required.

Order Trial In Bank Robbery

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Three persons were named in federal robbery warrants Wednesday in the $6,900 holdup of a branch of the First National Bank at Neenah, Mich., Monday night.

Taken into custody earlier Wednesday near Niagara, Wis., were John M. White, 22, Niagara; Ronald D. Mills, 20, Helenwood, Tenn.; and James G. Waymire, 16, Upland, Ind. Their arrests followed an intensive two-day search by local and Michigan State Police and the FBI.

The three were taken to Marquette and then brought to Green Bay before Federal Commissioner John Duffy. He ordered them held in the Brown County jail in lieu of $15,000 bond each.

Mills asked for a court-appointed attorney and Duffy ordered a preliminary hearing for Dec. 21. The other two waived preliminary hearings and were bound over to the federal court at Marquette, Mich., for trial.

State GOP Has $1.6 Million Goal For '68 Budget

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Republican party has approved a $1.6-million state budget for the 1968 presidential election year. State Chairman Elly Peterson announced today.

The 1968 budget of $1,585,205, approved by the State Central Committee and the State Finance Committee, is almost double the $852,000 budget for 1967 and compares with $1,587,946 in 1966.

However, it is slightly under the $1,712,709 figure of 1964 — the year of the last presidential election.

The lower figure for 1968 was explained by the fact there are no gubernatorial or senatorial races in Michigan next year — as there were in 1964.

"The party's 1968 budget was adopted unanimously, and without a single reduction in proposed expenditures," Mrs. Peterson told a news conference.

The budget allocates $500,000 to the national party — almost twice the amount sent to national headquarters in 1967 — to meet the additional cost of the national campaign.

The budget includes $340,000 for 1968 state office campaigning. It was broken down into $200,000 for congressional races, $90,000 for legislative races, $24,000 for educational, and $26,000 for judicial.

The budget also includes $50,000 allotted to defray special expenses of Gov. George Romney, the first announced candidate for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination, and Lt. Gov. William Milliken.

Mrs. Peterson said the amount will be used to meet expenses that are "not in the domain of state government" and will be divided between Romney and Milliken.

Arthur Bushy Dies Wednesday

Arthur Bushy, 82, of Powers died at 9 a. m. Dec. 13 at the Anderson Memorial Hospital in Norway following a long illness.

Mr. Bushy was born Dec. 14, 1884 in Powers and had resided there all of his life. He was married to the former Alice Diamond and was a member of St. Francis Xavier Church and the Holy Name Society. He was employed as a maintenance foreman for the C&NW Railway.

Friends may call at the Kell-Todlin Chapel after 3 p. m. Friday and the parish Rosary will be recited at 8 p. m. Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Francis Xavier Church with Rev. A. Ehlinger officiating. Burial will be in the Norway Township Cemetery.

State Planning, Role Of College To Be Discussed

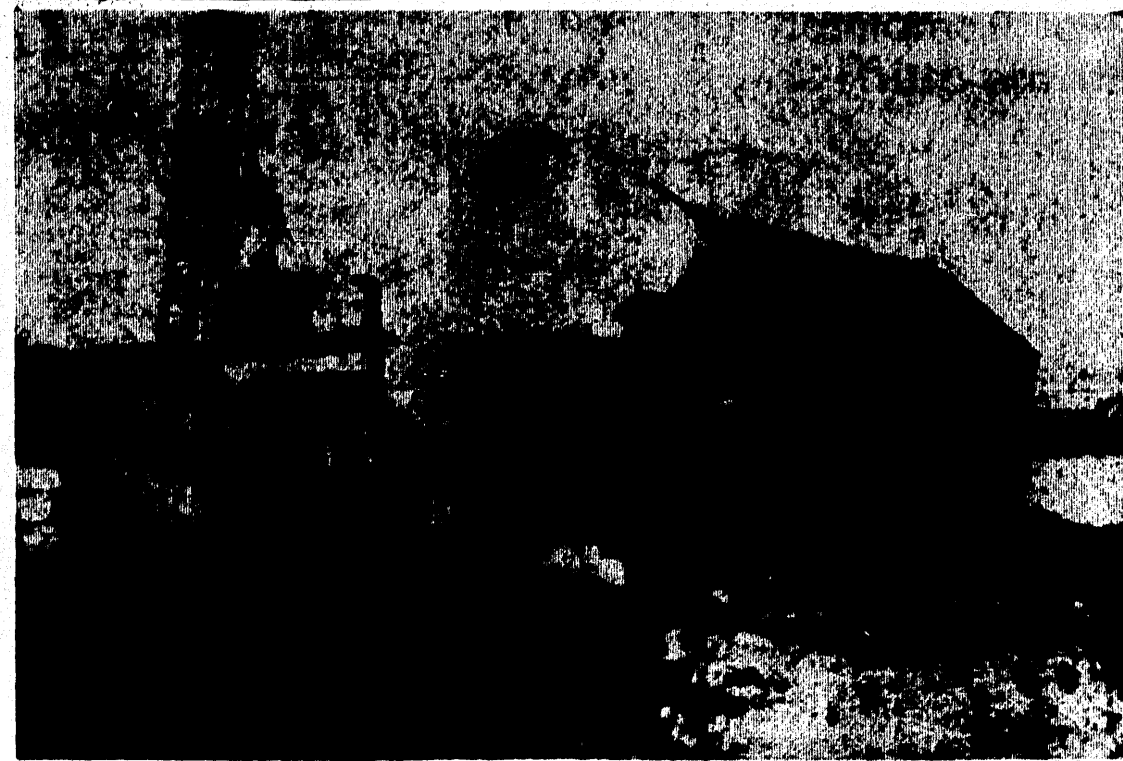

A discussion of state planning for community college districts in the Upper Peninsula and the respective roles of the institutions has been scheduled on the agenda for the meeting of the Bay de Noc Community College Board of Trustees tonight.

The Board will meet at 8:30 at the college.

Also listed for consideration is a discussion of the college's millage proposal. The Board will meet earlier with representatives from area governments and school boards to discuss a date for a special election.

The Board of Trustees will ask approval of an additional 1.5 mills for operating expenses, but no date for the election next year has been set.

A discussion of procedures for the appointment of a board member to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur Slaughter is also scheduled.

Their removal was authorized by the Conservation Commission, which has control of the frontage there, and the work is being done by Escanaba city public works crews. Invite Snow-Goers To Forest Trails

Snowmobiling in the Upper Peninsula has opened a new field of outdoor recreation and most snowmobile enthusiasts look to the public lands to explore the winter landscape.

"The Hiawatha National Forest provides almost unlimited opportunities," said Forest Supervisor Al Trout, Escanaba.

"This new form of winter recreation will see hundreds of persons going into the woods to enjoy the beauty of the winter season."

The Forest Service is marking trails to guide the snowmobiler along scenic routes. Each of the five ranger districts of the Hiawatha will have at least one trail located this year. A network of trails will be built to handle future use as the demand increases.

Snowmobile clubs have already been formed in many communities and district rangers in these areas are cooperating with the clubs to locate the best available snowmobile routes.

"This new winter recreation is compatible with National clothes. Plan your trip, carry a map and compass and know how to use them. Carry a survival kit.

All roads and trails on the National Forest may be used for snowmobiling except those roads plowed for automobile or truck travel. It's better to stay on the marked trails, however, Trout advised.

Snowmobilers using the National Forests can get further information at the District Ranger offices in Rapid River, Munising, Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace and at the Forest Supervisor's headquarters in the Escanaba Post Office Building.

Golf Club Bars Snow Machines

The Board of Directors of the Escanaba Country Club today closed the golf course to snowmobile riders and asked the Escanaba Police Dept. to patrol the area against violations.

The police department indicated it would cooperate with the Country Club in making checks on the property and ordering snowmobilers off the property.

A member of the Board of Directors pointed out that snowmobile owners have been using the golf course to run machines, damaging greens and fairways. In some instances, he pointed out, machines have been raced over the course in areas where there is no snow.

Ken Tomahak, superintendent of public works, earlier this week asked the police department to keep snowmobile riders out of Ludington Park for similar reasons.

Forest multiple use management," Supervisor Trout said. "Along with skiing and snowshoeing it helps to extend the recreation season beyond the fall color and hunting seasons. There is little interference with other forest uses."

However, the snowmobiler is asked to follow a few simple rules. It is a violation of good sportsmanship to chase game. It is also a violation of good manners to be a litterbug. The Forest Service asks the forest user not to discard trash on the snow, but to haul it out the same way they packed it in.

There are also some good safety rules that should be followed: Never go off alone. It is better to travel with two or more machines. This may save a long lonesome walk back in the event of a breakdown. Always carry snowshoes in case a walk is necessary. Keep physically fit and be prepared for some exertion. Wear warm

Sault Approves New High School

SAULT STE. MARIE — Voters of the Sault Area public school district Wednesday approved a $4.5 million bond issue to finance construction of a new high school in the Minneapolis Woods tract.

The one-story school, which is hoped to be ready for occupancy by the 1969-70 school year, will have 56 teaching stations and a large vocational wing. Enrollment at Sault High School is about 1,200.

Passage yesterday came after three previous proposals for building a high school had failed, the last one on a $5.5 million proposal last June. About 50,000 square feet and an estimated $1 million in costs were trimmed from the proposal of last June for yesterday's election.

Yes vote was 1,975 with 1,830 residents voting no. In the City of Sault Ste. Marie, the proposal passed by a 345-vote margin.

The $4.5 million project will include purchase of a 60-70 acre construction site, construction of the building, purchase of all necessary equipment, and payment of architectural and legal fees. Members of the Board of Education expressed hope that the bonds could be sold in time to let bids and begin construction next summer.

The new building will include a combination cafeteria-study hall for 500, a 2,200-seat gymnasium and a swimming pool designed for year-around community use.

Cost to the property owner for the 29-year bonding period is expected to range between $16 and $31 annually, depending on valuation. Only property owners were eligible to vote in the election.

U.P. Fair To Be Earlier; Set For Aug. 13-18

The earliest U.P. State Fair dates in history will bring opening of the Fair at Escanaba on Tuesday, Aug. 13, 1968, it is reported today by Cliff Perras, the Fair's manager.

The Board of Managers set the earliest dates (Aug. 13-18) to avoid a conflict with the Michigan State Fair in Detroit, whose dates were advanced.

Traditionally the U.P. Fair opened the third Tuesday in August.

This coming year the entry days for the U.P. Fair will be Aug. 11 and 12.

What Newspapers Print

We have received more requests than usual of late, it seems, for the publication of only "good" news.

There seems to be a belief that if newspapers would not print news of crimes and other troubles that they would go away. Or, perhaps, more realistically, that the accent on the good would tend to encourage good actions and minimize the bad.

This sort of thinking, we're sure, comes out of good intention and certainly it comes from good people, but it is mistaken.

In the first place, it would pervert the function of the newspapers, which is not to prepare a selective view of the community, but to reflect, as best they can, its whole life, the shortcomings and viciousness along with the achievements and noble actions.

To do less than this would make the newspapers much less useful than they are and would certainly encourage the criminal and predatory elements in our society by enabling them to operate under much more cover than they do today, with newspaper inspection, reportage and comment.

Self-government is a difficult form of rule. It can succeed only — if it can succeed — when the electorate is sufficiently informed so that it recognizes the dangers to public peace and safety. Sometimes even this recognition is not sufficient, for the public becomes informed but loath to act because it would mean a reduction of income, increased taxes, jailing of drunken drivers, etc.

A current example is the threat of inflation to the American economy. Certainly it is known to most Americans that Congress should trim federal spending and that we should have an income surtax if our money is to keep its value, but there is no demand for it except from the economists who see disaster ahead if we kept fiddling to our present financial policy.

Any pique of the public with the news media over the amount of bad news is understandable, but there's no cure for it in suppression. That would change the public from an informed-frustrated group into an ignorant-deceived one. There's no salvation in that direction.

A part of the unhappiness that a big diet of bad news creates is no doubt related to our conscience. We really should be doing something about the war, and the race problem, poverty, inflation, the city jungles, unequal educational opportunities and other serious problems.

About the good news we need do nothing but applaud. It states accomplished facts of inspirational achievement.

The "bad" news is disturbing not only because it informs us that we live in a troubled society, but also because it stirs human conscience about involvement in remedy.

We are reminded, when anyone suggests that news be suppressed, of the late Louis Lochner's story about Putsy Haenfstangel. He was an early piano-playing caddy of Adolf Hitler. When Hitler was spreading Nazi terror in Germany its people became fearful to report even the obvious publicly without official permission, so much so that even the Nazis couldn't find out what was going on sometimes.

On one such occasion when there had been a huge explosion at Dortmund, Haenfstangel called Lochner to ask what the AP knew? Lochner was Associated Press bureau chief in Berlin. Nazi suppression had defeated its own purpose, so that even the Nazis couldn't find out what was going on. People gazing on the blasted buildings were asked what happened and said: "We didn't see anything!"

When this year's rubber bridge championship started at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, Sands vice-president Sandy Waterman told us that he hoped the winners would be ordinary bridge players. He said, "Of course, you experts have an advantage. If the cards break even in a match your skill should win for you, but you will be playing rubber bridge against other rubber bridge players and I have a hunch maybe some of them will come through and win."

Sandy was right. The winners were Clark Merritt of San Marino and Robert Krost of Pasadena, Calif.

Mr. Merritt is a retired auditor of the California Tax Board, and Mr. Krost is an accountant. They play small stake rubber bridge together and had played a little duplicate back in the '30s. They know nothing of modern expert bidding and play a circa 1933 Culbertson system.

Of course, 1933 Culbertson was a pretty good system. One of its features was the Culbertson four and five no-trump which preceded Blackwood. Mr. Krost's two spade call was a trifle weak by modern standards, but he had a six-card suit and 4½ honor tricks. Mr. Krost's four no-trump showed either two aces plus the king of spades or three aces.

South's five no-trump bid showed two aces whereupon North went to six spades. Mr. Merritt's final bid of seven spades had become a cinch. He knew that Mr. Krost held two aces and the king of spades from the four no-trump bid and spade support from the six-spade bid.

Three rounds of trumps took care of that suit, and dummy still held a trump to ruff the last diamond. Mr. Merritt might have claimed right away, but he actually played the hand that far before showing his cards. You can't be too careful in the final round of any tournament.

Pass 4♥ Pass ?

You, South, hold:

What do you do now?
A—Bid four no-trump. Your partner should have four spades with you, and the odds are that if you need a finesse in either spades or diamonds it will work. East has opened the bidding while West has done nothing but pass. If your partner shows an ace, you will gamble on a slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding four spades, your partner jumps to four hearts over your two spades. What do you do now?

Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Spec. 4 Larry W. Winslow, the husband of Junita A. Winslow of Plainville, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Pentagon has announced.

"At Least, I'm Not Completely Unfamiliar with the Stuff!"

Bar Divided On Judicare And Legal Services, Inc.

What sort of relationship has developed between the Bar Association of the Upper Peninsula and the attorneys who are giving legal services to the indigent under the free program of U. P. Legal Services, Inc., financed by the Office of Economic Opportunity and sponsored by UPACAP?

Legal Services is a new element in the practice of law in the Upper Peninsula. It supplements or substitutes for the legal profession's "charity" work in the law, and so it is a competition of sorts for the private practitioner.

The relationship of the bar and the Legal Services lawyers has been a mixed bag, varying from community to community. In some places they have been admitted to the bar — in one area because the circuit judge said that was the way they could get the court listing of cases — and in others they have not been.

Asked about Legal Services' relationship with the bar, Nino Green, Gladstone, executive attorney of Legal Services, Inc., said:

"I've seen no evidence of attorneys in the Upper Peninsula using the program to get rid of unremunerative work. They are quick to recognize the value of the program. When a man comes to them and says 'I want some legal service, but I'm limit in what I can pay,' the attorney knows who to call."

"We have had no problems and almost no criticism in respect to any suspicion that we are representing people who are not (financially) eligible. We have, on the other hand, had a problem in determining what type of assistance or advice we should give to people who do not qualify financially, but who were referred to us by private attorneys, which is a frequent problem."

"When we first came here the bar was pretty evenly split on the question whether there was a need for Legal Services or not. At this point the bar in the U. P. is evenly split on whether we should have the type of program that we in fact do have, or whether a Judicare program with private attorneys paid a reduced fee (usually 80 per cent) for representing indigent clients."

"It has been my observation that those attorneys in the Upper Peninsula who most vigorously advocate the Wisconsin system of Judicare are those who have the most remunerative practices and who are least likely to have the time or the will to represent indigent clients."

"I have yet to speak to any attorney who knows anything about Judicare, because Judicare has published no statistics and nobody knows what the program is costing on an annualized or any other basis, and what results have been produced for the moneys that have been expended."

(The Office of Economic Opportunity funds it.)
"Why this is, I don't know. We've made our figures public. I'd like to know about Judicare."

"I have been worried about our load (of cases). Our attorneys often work 12, 14 and 16 hours a day. They're often in the office on Saturday and even on Sunday."

"In Marquette appointments start at 7:30 a. m. All the six officers (one in each of the six Upper Peninsula Community Action Agency areas) are busy full time.

"One of the reasons that our work is so time-consuming is that we work in areas of law that have been virtually untouched by private practice. If you have a problem that relates to a client's entitlement to Old Age Assistance benefits, you are called upon to study and understand the whole scheme of state statutory law and regulations, the federal statutory law and regulations and the political relationship between the two networks of law."

"I am working now in the several areas and I can stack the regulations page on page to a height of about three feet. Just locating that part of it that applies to your case may take you days."

"I am never personally critical of a welfare caseworker's mistake when I consider the amount of material that the worker has to digest accurately and then apply to the hundreds of situations that he may be confronted with in his job. It amazes me that the caseworkers do as well as they do, considering the complicated legal schemes in which they operate."

The library shelves today are loaded with detailed, intimate histories which reveal the tremendous in-fighting among top U. S., British and other strategists over key World War II decisions. Choices not made can never be made.

To a much-more-limited degree, and mostly within the confines of this country's own effort, the same disputes flared in the Korean war and are raging internally over Vietnam.

Inescapably, however, many of the decisions and categorical criticisms now being laid down over Vietnam will never be accurately appraised because no one will be able to gauge truly their exact contribution to the final result—good or bad.

Similarly, if Richard Nixon should win the GOP nomination next year, who will really be able to say what part was played by each of 100 or so key internal choices made by his strategists? Or what would have happened if opposite choices had been made in 50 of those instances?

War and politics are trial-and-error enterprises. Generals and politicians tend to muddle through to victory or defeat. The man who "knows" the consequence of every action taken or not taken in such complex endeavors lives in a private, unreal world.

OPINION

Skipper's Annual Report:
I begin this report by greeting Delta County's old time trout fishermen for Fred Western former chief of the Fisheries Division of the Department of Conservation. I had a very fine letter from Fred, who is now retired and resides in Lansing. Fred and his good wife are enjoying the sunset trail, U. P. fishermen never had a better friend than Fred Westernman.

I have before me all the news reports concerning the 1967 firearms deer season. I think the finest story was written by John Jerow, Daily Press, Nov. 19, 1967. John's story was pure fiction. All of the rest of the stories were fiction also, but the writers attempted to claim them as true stories.

The greatest fiction was also the latest Dec. 9, with large headlines: "Deer kill up 12,000 for a total kill of 103,000 deer." The Game Division knows no more about the total deer kill than I know about the number of boulders to be found on the moon. Their figures are about as reliable as McNamara's prophecies of the end of the Vietnam War.

In my judgment Dave Arnold's article Nov. 11, was as usual 99 44/100% wishful thinking and 6/10% unverified facts. I regret very much that I cannot share the editor's high regard for Mr. Arnold as a game specialist.

I was in hope that the "credibility gap" would be closed this year, because it is common knowledge in the U. P. that the deer herd, except in scattered areas, is far below normal. But why close the credibility gap, when managed news has become the accepted way of government? It starts in Washington and reaches down to Lansing.

There being few deer in the Cornell area, I spent two days visiting various camps in the Watson, Northland, Cornell area. In most camps I found the same story repeated over and over again. "Deer are scarcer than ever." I found the same story in the stores. By the way, I didn't visit any taverns, so I couldn't see double, which is too bad, because then I might have had a better report. I'm leaving town Friday, Dec. 15 so if any one wishes to shoot me they will have to wait until after the New Year.

Ann Landers Kicking The Barrel Relieved Pressure

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a steady reader who was adopted at birth. For the 50th time I've been asked by a "friend" if I ever wonder who my real parents are. How can I get it through their unthinking heads that I am living with my real parents?

Is there some set rule that says parents must go through the motions of childbirth? Where does love come in? I mean no disrespect to my natural mother but I often thank God for putting me into the home of the wonderful people who raised me. It was a lucky break.

I don't think I've said this very well, Ann, but I've been wanting to say it for a long time and I feel like a million dollars now that I've said it. Thanks for the opportunity.—NO STRANGERS LIVE HERE

Dear No Stranger: What a wonderful letter! It sounds as if someone has done a beautiful job of making you feel wanted and loved. Cheers for the whole family.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you published a letter from a woman who was bemoaning the fact that she was over-endowed. When the salesgirls saw her coming, they used to sigh, "Good grief, here comes old D-cup!"

You answered by telling her about a survey made in your office which revealed that 10 out of 11 girls said they would rather have too much than too little.

Surveys don't help the woman whose bra straps cut into her shoulders like knives because they are carrying such a load. Surveys don't help the unfortunate girl who can't wear sweaters or scoop neck dresses or clingy fabrics and is called by nicknames you couldn't print in your column.

Why don't you tell the woman who wrote that the super-blessed females can now be helped by surgery? The operation is not dangerous. The surgeon merely removes the excess fatty tissue and the woman emerges with normal measurements.

So many problems are insoluble. When one comes along that can be solved, I should think you'd be happy to pass the word.—BEEN THERE should have suggested it. My apologies to all whose cup runneth over.

Dear B. T.: You are right. The surgery you describe has helped many women. I was a Christmas cookie-sweet, but aware of the procedure and I nutty.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the teen-age boy who signed himself Pressure Cooker was especially interesting to me.

When our son Bob was 14 he came to me and said he didn't know what to do about his "terrible temper." Bob expressed himself much in the same way as the boy who wrote. He described his uncontrollable feelings of anger and confessed that he had once kicked the dog because someone had been nasty to him at school.

I bought a big rubber barrel at the hardware store and told Bob that whenever he got mad to go to the basement and kick the barrel.

It worked wonders, Ann. "Kicking the barrel" became a family affair. When my husband and I had a disagreement we would go down to the basement together and kick the barrel. There were times when that barrel did the job of two marriage counselors!

Our "little boy" is married now, and when we asked him what he wanted for a house-gift guess what he asked for? The barrel.—BIG PROBLEM SOLVED

Dear Solved: The barrel idea is well worth imitating. Thank you!

Groucho Marx, Christmas Show Delight Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Williams' Christmas show on NBC has become a holiday institution by now and Wednesday night's 1967 edition was perhaps the most delightful of the lot.

As usual, the entire Williams tribe was assembled for the hour program—parents, brothers, in-laws, nieces and nephews. And since everybody sings—including Andy's pretty wife, Claudine—the program was able to provide entertainment with a real family feeling.

The annual comeback of the Williams Brothers singing act was the top attraction of the Christmas show. This season they sparkled in an amusing recreation of one of their old five-minute radio shows, complete with singing commercial.

But the Williams Brothers are no longer the top guest stars of the show. Now it is Andy's children, little Noelle and Christian, who are the principal attractions. And small as they are, they are good troupers, attentive and well-behaved while their father was telling a bedtime story.

Happy Spirit

There were some elaborate production numbers on ice, and the settings, as usual on a Williams show, were as attractive as the musical portions.

The program was in excellent taste, as easy and informal as ever, projecting a happy holiday spirit.

NBC's "Music Hall," earlier in the evening was of special interest because it presented an assortment of younger comedians and an older one, Groucho Marx.

Marx resumed his 1928 role of Captain Jeffrey Spaulding, African adventurer, in the opening number, to demonstrate, he said, that comedy had changed over a period of 40 years. At any rate, Groucho's style—full of bite and wisecracks—was completely different from anything the young comedians had to offer.

Play On Words

His favorite humor seems to involve plays on words: "I shot an elephant in my pajamas, and how he got into my pajamas I'll never know."

Dick Cavett, a young comedian about whom many of his fellow funny men are enthusiastic, came on with a low-key monologue that seemed to ramble, but was highly effective. The team of Clair and McMahon did a husband-wife sketch that was quite funny. Burns and Schreiber repeated one of their taxi sketches, but one that is now getting a little threadbare on TV use.

Hope Show Tonight

Groucho observed that "the creation of laughter takes a great deal of training and trying," but the funniest moments of the hour came when a hilarious portion of a 1953 "You Bet Your Life" show was replayed. And the funny man was not a professional comedian at all, but one of the contestants on the show.

It was a variety hour played strictly for laughter and proved to be good fun for the audience.

Recommended tonight: "The Bob Hope Show," NBC, 8:30-9:30 EST, with Phil Silvers, Wally Cox and Don Adams.

Five $1 Stamps On Yule Card

CALUMET, Mich. (AP)—Fewer than 600 miles separate this Upper Peninsula community from the city of Detroit, but one Detroit resident apparently felt it would take five $1 stamps to get his Christmas card to a friend in Calumet.

The card already is in the hands of the addressee, but Calumet residents, never noted for overstuffing pockets, still are talking about it, the Calumet post office reports.

Highway Death Toll Is Reduced

LANSING (AP) — Michigan is heading for a significant reduction in highway fatalities this year, Col. Fredrick Davids, State Police director, told the State Safety Commission.

As of Tuesday, the state recorded 1,936 highway fatalities, down from 2,149 at that date a year ago.

Last year's final traffic death toll was 2,296, the highest on record. Delayed and late reported deaths helped make up the total.

"We believe the public has become more safety minded as a result of the generally increased emphasis on traffic safety," Davids said.

Contributing to the good record, Davids said, are the new check lane inspections by State Police, publicity concerning the new implied consent law requiring testing of drinking drivers and stepped-up enforcement.

"With continued good luck, enforcement and good publicity, I believe we can look forward to a more acceptable traffic death record for 1967," Davids said.

The State Police director said several inquiries have been received about Michigan's good record, one from New Zealand.

The safety commission also was told that Michigan has the best traffic death record among the major industrial states at the end of eight months.

The Michigan fatality rate is 4.2 deaths per 100 million miles of driving.

Davids reported breathalyzers now have been placed in all state police posts and 342 State Police have been trained to operate the machines. The training course will continue until it has been completed by 750 officers.

Davids said during the first two months of such tests, 343 motorists flunked the tests and 10 passed. Another 42 drivers refused to take the tests and will have their cases judged by the license appeal board of the secretary of state's office.

Secretary of State James Hare was reelected chairman of the State Safety Commission for the 14th consecutive year.

Negro Workers Slow To Move

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Negro workers generally have moved around less than whites over the past 15 years, according to a just published study by two University of Michigan economists.

This is despite the fact that the Negro unemployment rate, especially in recent years, has been double or more that of whites and that unemployed persons are slightly more apt to move than the employed.

The nationwide study was conducted by economists John B. Lansing and Eva L. Mueller of the university's Survey Research Center.

The study was supported in part by the U.S. Departments of Commerce, Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

The economists found that the generally lower levels of education and job skills of Negroes explained in part their lower mobility.

They also found that in the face of discrimination and a weak demand for Negroes' job skills, family ties and emotional ties to a place and friends appear to be a greater barrier to mobility for Negroes than for whites.

In addition, friends and relatives, rather than economic opportunity, guided what Negro mobility there was more than for whites, the economists said. Lansing and Mueller said their study also confirmed that economically depressed areas suffer from a brain drain of their best educated and most skilled young people.

Other findings include: —In one year, five per cent of family heads move from one labor market area to another. —Fifty-seven per cent of all heads of families are not living where they graduated from high school or left school.

—Family ties play a considerable role in why people move and where. Of those who have moved within the past five years, 24 per cent cited family reasons. Twenty per cent cited reasons such as friends or climate.

—Mobility rates are highest for the young and for persons with a college education. Highly trained persons are likely to move because their services are specialized and not equally in demand in all places.

—The unemployed are slightly more apt to move than the employed. Some members of low mobility groups—older people, less skilled or less educated people, or Negroes—may be induced to move, if at all, only as their unemployment becomes a severe hardship.

—Economic differences between labor market areas affect the number of people moving into an area much more than they affect the number moving out.

Lansing and Mueller also recommended national policy with economically depressed areas.

1. Making more information available about job opportunities elsewhere in the country. 2. Stepping up guidance programs, special education and training programs in the economically depressed areas.

Housewife Loser In Court Battle On Crash Helmet

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Juanita Silvey, who said the "helmet of salvation" offered through the Bible was the only protection she needed, has lost her court fight to avoid wearing a motorcycle crash helmet.

The housewife had been fined $10 in Municipal Court for riding without a helmet. She filed a test case, contending the city ordinance was unconstitutional.

Judge James H. Rexroad ruled the ordinance was constitutional. "It is a privilege and not a right to operate a vehicle on the public streets, and no individual can be permitted to be the judge of his duty to obey laws enacted in the public interest and welfare," the judge said.

O'Brien Morals Conviction Is Ordered Erased

LANSING (AP) — The morals conviction of former State Sen. Bernard F. O'Brien, D-Detroit, has been ordered technically erased by the Ingham County Circuit Court.

Judge Marvin L. Salmon ordered the charge "not-prossed" on application of Ingham County Prosecutor Donald Riesig. Judge Salmon said the action, which has the effect of nullifying the conviction in the lower court, was taken because of failure of witnesses in the case to appear to testify.

O'Brien was convicted after a jury trial in Lansing Township Justice Court on a charge of being a disorderly person. He appealed the conviction to the circuit court.

O'Brien was convicted on the testimony of Marion Lukens, a former Michigan State University coed, who charged that on May 22, 1966, O'Brien asked her to pose in the nude and commit immoral acts.

O'Brien was defeated in the primary in a try for re-election.

Seek 7-Day Week For Public Visits To State Capitol

LANSING (AP) — The State Capitol would be open to the public seven days a week instead of the present five days under terms of a concurrent resolution introduced in the House.

The resolution, sponsored by Rep. Matthew McNeely, D-Detroit, calls on the State Department of Administration to provide public access to the Capitol each day of the week, at least from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The only days exempted would be Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's day.

"Weekends offer a popular time for tourism and our interested citizens should not be turned away by finding the doors locked," McNeely said.

The resolution, if approved by the House, would go to the Senate for concurrence. It would not, however, be binding as law. State officials have said they lack a sufficient number of guards to keep the Capitol open on weekends.

Jobless Fewer In November

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national unemployment rate fell four points in November, the sharpest drop in more than six years, the Labor Department reports.

The jobless rate of 3.9 per cent last month reversed the upward trend in unemployment during September and October and returned the over-all rate to the range that has prevailed since late 1965.

The seasonally adjusted total of unemployed in November dropped to 2.9 million, which countered the downward trend usually occurring during the month.

The unemployment rate in November last year was 3.5 per cent.

Green Bay Enters Protest To Loss Of Two Trains

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—An Interstate Commerce Commission hearing into the proposed discontinuance of a joint Milwaukee Road-Soo Line passenger train operating between Milwaukee and Calumet, Mich., was told Wednesday North Central Airlines maintains extensive service to northern Michigan.

The hearing moves to Iron Mountain, Mich., today.

Protests on discontinuance of the Copper Country Limited were introduced by the city of Green Bay and protests without appearance were filed by Mayor Albert Breckheimer of Kiel, John Mogan of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen Local 445 and Albert Fournier, Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers Local 297, both of Green Bay.

City Atty. Ervin Doepeke introduced a Green Bay City Council resolution protesting the discontinuance as "contrary to the public interest and economy of Green Bay."

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Claus charms the snakes with the magic harp and Tweedledee escapes. This leaves only the dagger but the elf accidentally sticks himself and is poisoned.

CHAPTER ELEVEN THE DOOR IN THE WALL

Claus held the dying Tweedledee in his arms. The elf had said he would live if a stone should weep. But whoever heard of stones weeping?

Claus glared around at the rocky boulders jutting out of the snow. "Weep!" shouted Claus wildly. "Weep for Tweedledee!"

But the great stones stood frozen and dry in the wind.

Claus carried the elf into a nearby cave. It was cold there, too, but the stone walls cut off the wind. Claus built a fire and tried to warm the elf. He melted snow in a tin cup he carried on his belt. When the water boiled he used it to wash the small puncture in the palm of the elf's hand.

Then Claus sat there staring gloomily at nothing. Presently, his eyes widened and his mouth fell open. "They're weeping!" he shouted. "The walls are weeping!"

Now it could have been that the warmth of the fire and the steam from the boiling water caused moisture to form on the frozen rocks. Whatever the cause, tiny streams of water ran gently down the walls. There was no denying it: the stones were weeping!

Tweedledee opened his eyes. He sat up. He stretched. He was well.

Claus was so happy to see the elf return to life that he did not scold him for his carelessness with the dagger. But Tweedledee was gloomy. "All our weapons are gone. How can we fight the Pigwidgen now?"

"We'll have to use our wits," said Claus.

"Alas," said Tweedledee, "that is one thing I have in short supply."

"We shall see when the time comes," said Claus. "Now let us get where we are going or neither magic nor wits will do us any good."

So on they traveled northward. Snow swirled against them. Wind whistled around their ears. Tears froze in their eyelashes. Icicles hung from their chins.

"If the Pigwidgen lives in a land of frost and never-ending snow this surely must be it," said Tweedledee at last.

Claus cried, "Look! Look!" Tweedledee squinted through his frozen lashes. All he could see was now, snow, snow.

"It's like a solid wall," he grumbled.

"It IS a wall!" exclaimed Claus. "A solid wall 30 feet high."

"Then we're there!" whooped Tweedledee.

"But how do we get in?" wondered Claus.

"Simple," retorted the elf. "We'll climb it."

But the wall was straight and smooth. They could not get even a finger hold. They heaped up mounds of snow but could not reach even half way.

Claus said, "There must be a door."

They searched the length of the wall. They went down the side and around the back and down the other side. There was no door.

"What a stupid place to live," sputtered the elf. "You can't get in or out!" He kicked irritably at the wall.

A small square of wall jiggled slightly at his kick. "It moved!" blurted the elf. "It's a door!"

Claus and Tweedledee fell to their knees and scraped the snow from the wall. There was a tiny door no higher than Tweedledee's waist. In the center of the door was a tiny keyhole.

Right-To-Strike Limit Proposed

EAST LANSING (AP)—Some public employees should have the option to strike while others should have the right limited or denied, says a Michigan State University labor expert.

Jack Stieber, director of the MSU School of Labor and Industrial Relations, proposed that government employees be classified into three categories to solve the growing problem of strikes.

Stieber said police, firemen and prison guards should be required to submit to compulsory arbitration to resolve differences that might lead to a strike.

Workers for hospitals, public utilities, sanitation services and schools would be allowed to strike but injunctive relief could be sought in the courts if work stoppages threatened the health, safety and welfare of the community.

Government employees in other categories should be permitted to strike on the same basis as private industry workers, Stieber said.

"Government policies toward strikes," Stieber said, "should take into account the nature of the work stoppage. A strike by policemen or firefighters should be regarded differently from an interruption of service in state liquor stores."

In Cambodia, a funeral is a festive affair. There are days of feasting and dancing and the climax is reached when a torch ignites the funeral pyre. Then fireworks explode, filling the sky with flames, pinwheels and blinding splashes.

Limits Boost Cuts Speeding

LANSING (AP)—Raising the maximum speed limit for trucks on freeways has resulted in a drastic cut in the number of trucks exceeding the limit, reports the State Highway Department.

The 1966 Legislature authorized boosting the maximum truck speed on freeways from 59 to 60 miles an hour.

At the time, the highway department said, there were some fears that this would cause truckers to increase their speed the same amount, disregarding safety factors.

A one-year survey showed only a slight increase in average truck speeds, from 51.5 miles an hour in 1963 to 53.9 miles an hour in 1967.

The percentage of trucks exceeding the maximum speed limit in the daytime was only 12.9 per cent in 1967 compared to 61.7 per cent in 1965.

The nighttime percentage of trucks exceeding the freeway speed limit was 9.2 per cent this year compared to 66.6 per cent in 1965.

Mrs. William Bellefeuil (Lee's Studio)

Lucinda Hunter Bride Of William Bellefeuil

St. Thomas the Apostle Church was the setting Saturday, Dec. 2 for the wedding of Miss Lucinda Sue Hunter of Escanaba and William Raymond Bellefeuil of Rte. 1, Escanaba.

Rev. Leno Zadra heard the solemn exchange of vows during the double ring ceremony at 1 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunter of 1619 16th Ave. S. and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bellefeuil of Rte. 1 Escanaba.

The bride wore a white, long-sleeved, high-collared gown with a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom wore a dark suit and a white shirt with a dark tie. They were both smiling at the camera.

The bride chose for her wedding an A-line gown of peau d'annee with a Chantilly lace bodice, long tapered sleeves and sequin trimmed Sabrina neckline. A removable chapel train formed the back detail.

A forward cluster of pearl trimmed lace petals held her triple tiered bouffant veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white pompons with red roses.

The maid of honor wore an Emerald green gown of nylon organza and lace featuring a satin waistband. A matching forward bow headpiece held her flyaway veil and she carried a bouquet of white pompons with green trim.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hunter wore a powder blue walking suit with white fur trim and black accessories.

Mrs. Bellefeuil chose a silver and gold shift dress with matching accessories and both mothers were presented coronas of white pompons.

The wedding reception was held at the Chicken Shack.

The newlyweds are making their home at 1119 1st Ave. N., Escanaba. The bride attended Escanaba Area High School and Mr. Bellefeuil is a 1967 graduate of Escanaba Area High School. He is presently attending Bay de Noc Community College.

Tough Turkey? Scientist Lists Likely Causes

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Was your last turkey a little tough?

Well, homemakers, it may not have been your fault. You may be able to blame the whole thing on some error in processing. But more than likely, it was the fault of the bird itself.

Recent research by Michigan State University food scientists shows that poultry tenderness is affected by the "degree of bonding within the muscle fibers." This, says Dr. James F. Price, is related to the ability of the muscles to contract when the bird is either living or dead.

"We found that very subtle changes in protein occur within the muscle fibers and that these changes in protein are related to the muscle's ability to develop tension or contract," Dr. Price adds that breaks occur within protein chains at the same time poultry muscles become tender.

"We know that poultry meat can become tough if birds are frozen too quickly or overcooked soon after they have been killed," he comments. "A turkey can also become tough because of dryness, if it is overcooked at home."

"But none of this dryness or toughness affects the nutritional value of the bird. We found no changes in meat composition as the result of freezing too quick, overcooking or overcooking."

Surprisingly, there is a greater chance of getting a tough young bird than a tough old one, according to Dr. Price. All "biochemical changes" occur very rapidly in mature turkeys, so the odds are good that birds will be frozen or scalded after these changes have taken place.

"It's only fair to say that a toughness caused by quick freezing or overcooking is not too great," says Dr. Price. "Most people would still consider even the 'tough' bird acceptable."

Mrs. Romney At Bedside Of Ill Daughter

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Lenore Romney, the wife of Michigan Gov. George Romney, was at the bedside of the couple's daughter in an Ann Arbor hospital early this morning after flying back from London Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Romney, the only declared candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, planned to continue his 13-nation world tour, according to the governor's Lansing office.

The daughter, Mrs. Bruce Robinson of Ann Arbor, was listed in satisfactory conditions after surgery to correct complications stemming from the birth of her fourth child, a son, Timothy, last Friday.

Before surgery, her condition had been listed as critical. The hospital, St. Joseph's, declined to say what the complications were or whether the crisis had passed.

The governor, who flew on to Amsterdam, said his daughter was suffering from blood poisoning.

A hospital spokesman said shortly after midnight that she did not know how long Mrs.

Romney would continue to stay at her daughter's bedside.

The spokesman said the sleeping accommodations for Mrs. Romney could be made at the hospital if she wanted them.

Mrs. Romney had been with the governor on his tour in London when she got word of her daughter's condition.

The daughter, Jane, is one of four Romney children.

Mrs. Romney flew from London to Detroit Metropolitan Airport via New York, landing in Detroit at about 8 p.m., and drove straight to the hospital.

Mrs. Robinson's husband, a resident surgeon at University Hospital of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, could not be reached for comment.

The governor's office said that Dr. Robinson was not the surgeon who performed his wife's operation.

Artillery 'Shot' Shell Lethal On Charging Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has started using what amounts to huge artillery shot-gun shells against the Communists in South Vietnam sources report.

New artillery rounds fired in regular 105mm Howitzer pieces spray thousands of dart-shaped steel shafts over broad areas of jungle or open territory.

One well-aimed round can kill hundreds of enemy troops massing for an attack.

Military men report the weapon has been used with lethal effectiveness in such actions as Communist charges against American artillery positions below the Demilitarized Zone.

"I've seen reports of enemy soldiers actually being nailed to trees by these things," one officer commented.

Information on the antipersonnel cartridge has been cleared for publication by the Defense Department's security review office but defense officials decided not to announce its development through the Pentagon. A possible reason was the ugly nature of the weapon.

The new artillery round was first sent to the war zone on a test basis but is expected to become a standard ammunition item. It still bears its experimental designation of XM546.

Army officials say the round can be used either for close-in defensive fire or conventional direct fire.

It works this way: The round is fired into the air by a propelling charge, then explodes in flight projecting thousands of shafts specially made to fly nose-first. A fuse on the projectile allows commanders to set the distance at which the dart package bursts.

Each shaft weighs 8 grains. The entire round weighs 28 pounds and is slightly over 34 inches long. Its fuse begins ticking away as the projectile spins out the artillery tube.

Time Runs Out For GM Pact

DETROIT (AP) —Facing a midnight bargaining deadline but no strike deadline as yet, General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union continued talks today on a contract to cover 380,000 workers.

With developments kept secret by a news blackout the two sides have imposed, there was no indication how near an agreement might be.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, headed the union bargaining team in main table talks during Wednesday's 10 1/2-hour session, which followed a 10-hour bargaining meeting Tuesday.

Reuther was expected to join bargaining again when it resumed this morning. Louis M. Seaton, GM's top bargainer, faced, Reuther in the recent talks, while subcommittee meetings also continued.

The corporation, the world's biggest maker of automobiles, already has agreed in general to the terms of the settlements the UAW won at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

Legislators Support Levin

LANSING (AP) — Fifty of 54 Democratic state representatives Wednesday voiced their support for State Sen. Sander Levin of Berkeley as a candidate for Democratic state chairman.

An open letter of endorsement signed by the House members was sent to Levin following its circulation Tuesday by four of the representatives.

Reps. James Bradley of Detroit, Dominic Jacobetti of Dearborn, James Karoub of Highland Park and Alfred Sheridan of Taylor described the letter as providing new evidence of growing grass-roots support for Levin.

Levin and former State Rep. Floyd Mattheussen of Benton Harbor are the only announced candidates for the post, left vacant by the announced resignation of State Chairman Zolton Ferency.

The Democratic State Central Committee will meet Sunday at Michigan State University to pick a new chairman.

"Many Democratic legislators have privately voiced their support for Senator Levin's candidacy," the four circulators said in a statement.

"Because of this broad support and because we feel Sander Levin is the man we Democrats need for state chairman, we felt an open letter of endorsement would be the appropriate way to express ourselves publicly," they added.

Peninsula Thanks Treloar At Dinner

Sam M. Cohodas told Waba Treloar last night before the largest group ever to dine in Northern Michigan University's student center at Marquette.

"There are 750 people gathered here to pay tribute to a great friend of all of us. This is the best gift that we can give you; this gathering of 750 of your friends. All the tangible gifts (Treloar and his wife, Caroline were given many of them) can't make up for these friends. Look about you on your friends — you are a rich man!"

Cohodas' tribute came at the end of a long evening of accolades for Wilbert H. (Waba) Treloar that started with a cocktail party hosted by Panax Corp. in St. Michael's Church Hall. It and the testimonial dinner at NMU honored Treloar upon his retirement, at 66, as publisher of Panax Corp. newspapers in the Upper Peninsula: The Marquette Mining Journal, Escanaba Daily Press and Iron Mountain News.

Was Schoolteacher
Treloar joined the Mining Journal after graduation from Northern Teachers College (now NMU) at Marquette and a year of schoolteaching as principal of the Rock River Township Schools at Eben.

His reporter's skill came to the notice of the Mining Journal when he reported a fire in Chatham which made 36 persons homeless. Treloar professed humorously to have been disturbed that it took disposition of 36 persons to get him a $23-a-week job. The Mining Journal hired him in 1925 and sent him to another Russell newspaper, the Iron Mountain News, which in turn passed him along to its Iron River bureau, where he met an attractive Wisconsin girl, Caroline Anderly, who became his bride.

Thanks Three
He went back to the News, then to the Russell's Washenaw Post-Tribune in Ann Arbor in 1935 and in 1937 to the Ishpeming bureau of The Mining Journal. He went from there to The Mining Journal in 1947 as assistant business manager and became general manager and, after acquisition of the Russell Newspapers by Panax Corp., publisher. In his acknowledgment of the public tribute paid to him Wednesday night he told his well-wishers that three men had influenced his career most.

They were: "Frank Russell, Sr., who was an unrelenting taskmaster, but who was unrelenting on himself, too, in his quest of excellence; Leo Broth, who taught me the value of a dollar and the responsibility of stewardship; and Frank Russell, Jr., who taught me the importance of timeliness in decision and the need for courage to act. These have been very valuable lessons."

U. P. Need
"If there's anything I regret it's that greater intercommunity relations couldn't have been effected in the Upper Peninsula in my time. Often we lose on an area basis because we can't go beyond the community. Our citizens really have two obligations; one to their community, and the other to the Upper Peninsula. I hope in the years to come to have a part in a continuing program to effect this more."

Ogden Johnson, interim president of Northern Michigan University, was toastmaster and read messages of congratulations from many notables. John McGoff, president of Panax Corp., who had flown from London Wednesday to be at the dinner, brought a taped message of appreciation and good wishes from Governor Romney, with whom McGoff has been touring Europe.

Own Meter
The cities of Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee and Escanaba all cited Treloar for outstanding public service in official resolutions and he was given his personal parking meter by Marquette because he had made such a large contribution to its meter violation fund. The Ambassadors and Chambers of Commerce also cited Treloar.

Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president emeritus of Northern Michigan University lauded Treloar's example of responsible citizenship as something which the public needs to emulate. On Northern's troubled campus the suggestion was specially pertinent.

ed in debate Wednesday that the proposed welfare limitations would mean some needy children and their parents would be denied aid. They said many mothers would be forced to put their children into day care centers and go to work.

They referred to a provision which would set a limit on government-aided state programs for children in families with absent fathers. Each state would compute next January the proportion of aided children to all children in the state. This ratio then could not be exceeded in any expansion of the program.

States would have to set up training and work programs and when possible, require adults in aided families to work. These people would be allowed to keep some earnings without having their relief payments cut.

The states would provide day care for children of mothers working under the programs, as well as family planning services for those who want them.

"I thought we learned something last summer," Kennedy said. "If we had some trouble with a minority of our population last summer, what are we asking for over the period of 1968?"

Harris, a member of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders investigating last summer's riots, said the proposed welfare provisions will prove harmful in troubled American cities.

The Senate Democratic leadership exerted heavy pressure to win approval of the compromise bill.

Democrats were called to a meeting in Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's office where senators up for re-election next year told foes of the bill their chances would be harmed if the measure were forced over and the benefits delayed.

Flu Outbreaks Wane In State

LANSING (AP) — Outbreaks of influenza that spread throughout lower Michigan in past weeks are on the wane, reports the State Department of Public Health.

"For the bulk of the Lower Peninsula, we feel we have passed the peak of the epidemic curve," said Dr. Donald Cochran of the department's epidemiology division.

"The southeast section of the state is close to the peak," he said. "The flu is on the wane now, there's no doubt about that."

Michigan earlier this year won the dubious honor of having the first laboratory-confirmed outbreak of influenza in the nation for 1967.

The first outbreaks occurred in mid-November among students at Western Michigan University and public schools in Kalamazoo, the department said.

COLOMA (AP) — A 16-year-old Lawrence youth, wounded by a police officer investigating a reported burglary, died today in Waterford Community Hospital, just 14 miles from the hospital where his mother is confined awaiting an operation.

Michael Tillman died about six hours after he was shot by Coloma Police Officer Ron Weber. He was taken to the Coloma hospital, which is about 14 miles from where his mother is hospitalized in St. Joseph.

Tillman was wounded and his brother, sister and her boyfriend arrested after, police said, they were surprised while burglarizing a Coloma grocery store.

Seek 15 Mills

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — Voters in the St. Joseph School District will be asked Jan. 15 to approve 15-mill special school operating levy to replace an 8.8-mill levy which expired. The additional funds would be used to expand vocational training and increase community services. If approved, the millage would mean a 25 per cent hike in school taxes for property owners.

Bing Matches Scoring Mark, Pistons Win

DETROIT AP — Dave Bing equaled a team record for most points in a quarter and finished with 43 for the game as the Detroit Pistons whipped the New York Knicks 129-117, Wednesday in the National Basketball Association.

Bing, the league's leading scorer, drilled in seven baskets in nine attempts plus six free throws in the third period to match the Pistons mark originally set by George Yardly in 1958 and then equaled later by Don Ohl.

Eddie Miles, finishing with 29 points, joined Bing in a one-two assault against the Knicks, who lost their fifth straight. Detroit led 57-52 at the half.

Walt Bellamy had 26 for the Knicks, who played without regular forward Willis Reed, who suffered an ankle injury Tuesday night.

Face Cincinnati Next Bill Bradley, in his third game with the Knicks, scored 10 points and picked up seven assists plus five rebounds.

The victory was the Pistons' seventh in 10 games while New York was going down to its fifth consecutive loss and seventh in their last eight starts.

Detroit remains in third place in the Eastern Division, 3½ games back of first — 3½ Philadelphia and 2½ behind Boston.

The Pistons are idle tonight but resume action Friday in Cleveland against Cincinnati.

In other games, Cincinnati built an early lead into an easy 136-108 victory over Baltimore in Cincinnati and Chicago downed San Francisco 109-104 on the West Coast.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota defeated Indiana 113-99, Oakland beat New Orleans 102-89 and Denver beat New Jersey 111-92.

Connie Dierking's 10 points helped Cincinnati to a quick nine-point lead and by the middle of the third period the score had reached 94-58.

Oscar Robertson led the Royals with 27 points while Earl Monroe had 24 for the Bulls.

Chicago rallied in the last 30 seconds to trip San Francisco, which led most of the way. Clem Haskins put the Bulls ahead to stay with 1:30 left. McCoy McLemore converted a pair of free throws and Jerry Sloan clinched the verdict with a basket and two foul shots.

Sloan topped Chicago with 35 points while Fred Hetzel was high for the Warriors with 26.

New Facilities For Olympics Near Complete

NEW YORK (AP) — The facilities for the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City next October are 80 per cent complete and will be ready well before opening day, a Mexican official said Wednesday.

Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, an architect who is chairman of the organizing committee for the international competition, also told a news conference that 73 of the 110 countries participating in the Olympics will send people for the Cultural Olympics.

He said 20 artistic and cultural events will be held in conjunction with the athletic contests.

Questioned about the threatened boycott of the Olympics by U.S. Negro athletes, Ramirez called it an "internal problem of the U.S. committee."

Eastern Quintet Crushes Windsor

Dayton Turns On Louisville

By The Associated Press

Shed a tear for John Dromo, who succeeded Peck Hickman as basketball coach of the nationally high ranked University of Louisville Cardinals.

"If we win they will say I did it with Hickman's players, such as Westley Unsel and Butch Beard," Dromo said before the season opened. "If we don't win, then I've loused up some great material."

The Cardinals, fifth-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll, suffered their second straight upset on the road Wednesday night. They took a 63-47 drubbing from the Dayton Flyers, who had been upset twice themselves last week and fell out of the AP Top Ten.

Don Donohue, Dayton coach who led the Flyers to the NCAA championship final against UCLA last March, declared, "It was by far and away our best effort and a very welcomed comeback." He explained a 1-3-1 zone defense "stopped Louisville from moving the ball into Unsel and forced the outside men to take shots."

Donohue said the Cardinals' defense was "a real inspiration to the boys."

Muskies Belt Indiana Pacers

By The Associated Press

You might say the Minnesota Muskies have rebounded into a 1½ game lead in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

The Muskies swamped second-place Indiana 113-89 Wednesday night in New Castle, Ind., as Gary Keller, Skip Thoren and Mel Daniels controlled the boards.

Indiana, which led the division most of the early season, was outscored 74-49 as Keller grabbed 19, Thoren 14 and Daniels 13.

In other games, Levern Tart led Oakland past New Orleans 102-89 in New Orleans and Denver halted visiting New Jersey 111-92.

Keller, 6-foot-10, also had 16 points. Thoren 14 and Daniels 18, and Don Freeman added 24.

Roger Brown scored 20 and Fred Lewis 21 for the Pacers, who fell behind 60-40 at the half and never caught up.

Tart scored 13 points in the third period to increase a 46-45 halftime lead for Oakland to 76-58 and then added eight more in the final period, including two free throws with 17 seconds left when the Buccaneers pulled within 100-99.

Three finished with 25 points, three less than Jackie Moreland of the Bucs and one more than Doug Moe of the Pacers.

Denver swept to a 25-15 quarter lead, built it to 20 points at the half and coasted by New Jersey. Willie Murrell led Denver with 20 points and Grant Simmons and Larry Jones each added 19. Bob Lloyd topped the Americans with 16.

Colts Lead League In Defense, Nobody Named To All-Star Unit

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts were confused, and hardly amused, when the National Football League All-Star defensive team was announced earlier this week.

"Our guys are leading the league in defense, and no one makes the first team," said Tom Matte, a halfback on offense.

"Hey, Ordell," someone yelled to end Ordell Braase, the only Baltimore representative on the second All-Star team. "It looks like you're carrying all the rest of us."

"I know what it is," someone cracked. "Everybody on the Colts' defense is mediocre, but they all play well together."

The Colts' defense certainly comprises a cohesive unit, but the individual members hardly are inept.

"We have a lot of good players on defense," said Braase, an 11-year NFL veteran. "It's unfortunate that they're overshadowed by players on other teams who get more recognition."

Braase went through the same experience on the Colts, playing in the shadow of the great Gino Marchetti for many years before being selected for the Pro Bowl Game last season for the first time.

Next Sunday, the Colt defenders would gladly trade individual recognition for team effort if it stretches Baltimore's unbeaten record.

A victory over the Rams in Los Angeles Sunday, in the regular season finale, would give the Colts the Coastal Division championship. Even a tie would clinch the title for Baltimore.

The Rams draw rave notices for their defense, particularly the fearsome foursome in the line — ends Dave "Deacon" Jones and Lamar Lundy, and tackles Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown.

Jones and Olsen made the All-Star first team while corner back Maxie Baughan and safety Ed Medor of the Rams were named to the second unit.

Los Angeles has an edge over Baltimore in net yards allowed per game, 270 to 251, and is especially tough on running plays—giving up only 78 yards a game to Baltimore's 108.

But the Colts are tough when it counts. They lead the league in least touchdowns and points allowed, 17 and 164, as compared with the 22 and 186 of the Rams, and also top the NFL with 32 pass interceptions.

Oiler Infantry Puts Foot Back Into Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston, tied with New York for the American Football League's Eastern Division lead, has put the foot back into football.

Hoyle Granger and Woodie Campbell, a pair of tough running backs, have been the main cogs in the Oiler offense and statistically, they show the best average gain per carry in the league.

Official figures released Wednesday show Granger, the No. 2 rusher in the AFL, and Campbell, ninth. Both are averaging 4.9 yards a carry, tops in the league.

Granger has gained 918 yards in 186 carries and Campbell has gone 408 yards in 83 attempts. Jim Nance still leads all rushers with 1,052 yards in 248 carries, a 4.3 average.

Bakken Paces NFL Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Bakken of the St. Louis Cardinals appears to have the scoring title just about locked up in the National Football League with 115 points on 27 field goals of 38 attempts and a perfect score in extra points with 34 in a row.

Bruce Gossett, Los Angeles placekicker, won a year ago with 113 points.

Leroy Kelly, Cleveland's fine running back, has the rushing crown in hand with 1,143 yards and one game to go. Gale Sayers of Chicago, the 1966 champ, is seventh with 760 yards.

The battle for the pass receiving title still is wide open. Charley Taylor and Jerry Smith, both of Washington, each has caught 62 passes although Taylor has 899 yards to Smith's 813. Willie Richardson, Baltimore flanker, has 58, to break the Redskins' 1-2-3 monopoly, but then comes Bobby Mitchell of Washington with 57 catches. Top yardage receiver is Ben Hawkins of Philadelphia with 1,167 yards.

Sonny Jurgensen of Washington still has the passing edge over runnerup John Unitas of Baltimore in the standings based on percentage of completions, interceptions, touchdowns and average gain.

In other individual categories the leaders are Billy Lott of Atlanta in punting with a 43.9-yard average; Dave Whitell of New Orleans with 10 interceptions; Ben Davis of Cleveland with a 11.9-yard average on punt returns; and Travis Williams of Green Bay with a 44.6-yard average on kickoff returns. Williams has run back four for touchdowns, a league record.

Blake Ejected, Irate Canadiens Explode

By The Associated Press

Combustible Toe Blake set a personal record and the Minnesota North Stars extended a team mark but today's National Hockey League award for persistence goes to Chicago's slick Stan Mikita.

Blake, fiery coach of the Montreal Canadiens, was thrown out of a game for the first time Wednesday night for protesting a goal too vehemently. The fired-up Canadiens then routed Boston 6-2.

Minnesota blanked Los Angeles 4-0 and extended their unbeaten streak in games where they have scored the first goal to 10. They've won eight and tied two in games where they have opened the scoring.

Mikita scored twice, once while flat on his stomach, as Chicago tripped the New York Rangers 5-2.

In other games, Pittsburgh edged Toronto 2-1 and St. Louis whipped Oakland 3-1.

First Time Out
Blake exploded when Referee Bill Friday allowed a goal by Boston's Ken Hodge in the first period. The Canadiens protested that Boston had too many men on the ice when the goal was scored.

At the end of the period, Blake approached Friday again and the referee gave the veteran an each the thumb. "It was the first time it ever happened to me in the NHL," said Blake.

Jean Beliveau, sidelined by an injury, took over for Blake and the Canadiens erupted for three goals in each of the last two periods. Rookie Jacques Lemaire scored twice and tough John Ferguson notched his first goal of the season.

Cesare Maniago registered Minnesota's shutout — the first ever for the expansionist North Stars. Wayne Connelly scored twice, his first goal coming with the game barely one minute old. The early goal was a good omen for the North Stars, who have been unbeatable when they score first. Maniago kicked out 30 shots for his third career NHL shutout.

Mikita, who has scored six goals in Chicago's last three games, snapped a 1-1 tie in the first period against the Rangers, when he went in alone against goalie Ed Giacomin, was tripped from behind, and still propelled the puck into the net while sprawled on the ice.

Hull Scores
Bobby Hull scored his 25th goal of the season for the Black Hawks and Bob Nevin produced both Ranger goals.

Ken Schinkel, a listed on Art Stratton's teeing goal and then deflected a Noel Price slap shot for the third period winner as Pittsburgh shaded Toronto.

The defeat against the expansionist Penguins snapped an 11-game home ice unbeaten streak for the Maple Leafs and dropped Toronto in a tie for second place in the East Division with Chicago.

St. Louis escaped the West Division cellar by winning its third straight as Gary Sabourin fired his first two NHL goals.

Jim Roberts also scored and Glenn Hall kicked out 24 Oakland shots as the Seals slipped into last place in the West.

Beirne Heads Academic Team

CHICAGO (AP) — End Jim Beirne of Purdue and halfback Chico Kurzwski of Northwestern were unanimous choices on the Big Ten's 15th annual All-Academic football squad announced Wednesday.

Split end John Wright of Illinois was selected at end for the third straight year to become the sixth player to be named three times since the program began in 1953.

Repeating for the second time were Ron Kamzelski, Minnesota, defensive tackle; Tony Williams, Iowa, defensive back; Bob Stein, Minnesota, defensive end; Dick Himes, Ohio State, tackle; Tom Garretson, Northwestern, safety; and Tony Pleviak, Illinois, line-backer.

The 1967 team was selected by 34 Midwestern sports editors and football writers. Its composite grade point average was 3.2, based on a 4.00 A scale.

Others on the offensive team include tackle Ezell Jones, Minnesota; guards Bob Sebeck, Purdue, and Wally Schoessow, Wisconsin; center Joe Dayton, Michigan; backs Mike Phipps, Purdue; Harry Gonso, Indiana, and Bob Olson, Northwestern.

The defensive team includes end Tom Bilunas, Indiana; tackle Lance Olson, Purdue; line-backers Dave Tomassula, Illinois; John Cornell, Northwestern; and Dave Nixon, Minnesota; and back Dennis Cirbes, Purdue.

Feller Speaker

Banquet Tickets To Go On Sale

Tickets for the Escanaba Little League-Minor League Recognition Banquet Jan. 22 in the Holy Name High School multipurpose room with Bob Feller as the main speaker will go on sale Friday.

Because of the limited facilities, the tickets will be offered until Jan. 1 to players and their parents. Requests for tickets should be made through team managers. After Jan. 1, remaining tickets will be made available to the public.

The event which is jointly sponsored by the Escanaba Lions Club, the Escanaba Jaycee Little League and the Escanaba Minor League, will have as its guests all boys who worked on the 1967 Soap Sale.

Frank Bourke, president of the Little League, stated, "We are delighted to have a figure of Bob Feller's stature speak at our banquet. In the past we have had such orators as Lou Burdette, Carl Erskine, and Harvey Kuenn, but Feller will be the first Hall of Famer we have ever had. He promises to be a real inspiration to the boys."

What's That 85-GOLFER Doing Up There with ARNOLD PALMER and JACK NICKLAUS?

That 85-golfer in the center is Will Grimsley, noted Associated Press sportswriter, who spends more time writing about golf and golfers than he does playing it.

If you were a touring pro — such as Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus — or a top amateur, you'd be personally acquainted with Will Grimsley, too. Where top golf is played, he is there to write about it.

Will is equally knowledgeable on the tennis circuit, in the football press box and wherever sports are played. Twelve times he's made the long trek to Australia for the Davis Cup matches. From many other lands he's reported the Olympic Games.

Will Grimsley is one of the top sportswriters of our time. He brings you the full story: who won — how and why.

Tie Gifts With Vivid Yarns

Wrapping gift packages is half the fun of Christmas giving. Many women become so adept at creating elegant or whimsical designs that the receivers hesitate to spoil the effect.

A new twist for Christmas '67 is the use of vivid colored yarns as gift ties. These are coordinated with wrapping papers in bright blues, purples, pinks and orange. Traditionalists are not overlooked. There are reds and greens.

For those who like fresh ideas, take a tip from Mrs. Jeannette Lee. As design director for a greeting card and gift wrap firm, she dabbles in all sorts of wrapping tricks.

Mrs. Lee points out, though, that the first step is to coordinate colors of the papers and yarn so the finished package will be artistic-looking. Always include a matching tag or enclosure card with each gift. Nothing confuses a person as unnecessarily as having to guess who gave them a gift.

When using yarn you will need white liquid glue and scissors. Clear a work area and allow enough room to spread out wrapping supplies so you can see them at a glance without having to dig under a pile of objects.

For a completely new Christmas package character, try a turtle. He'll catch the eye of a child. For a turtle, it is best to trace an oval shape on gift paper and coil the yarn on the oval, gluing it down until the area is filled. Wrap a little ball of yarn around a wad of paper for the head and the little knots for eyes. When the gift is removed, the turtle can be stuffed with paper to keep its form. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

HAUTE COUTURE colors invade the Christmas packaging field. Yarn gift ties of acrylic come in purples, pinks and oranges.

Overseas Cargo At Detroit Port Sets New Mark

DETROIT (AP)—More overseas cargo moved through the Port of Detroit this season than ever before, despite a general downward trend throughout the Great Lakes.

Albert B. Gregory, chairman of the Detroit Wayne County Port Commission, said that more than 1.75 million tons of cargo were moved through the port this season.

This is up more than 350,000 tons over last season and about 1,000,000 tons more than the previous record in 1965, Gregory said.

October was the biggest month ever recorded by the port, Gregory added, and November, only slightly lower, was the second biggest in terms of cargo moved.

Gregory also said that exports have shown a sharp upturn. Export tonnage totaled about 385,000 tons, more than double the total last year, Gregory said.

He said this also runs counter to the general trend in the Great Lakes and the nation.

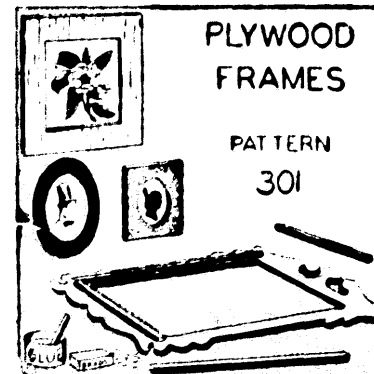

Gregory attributed the increases to recent improvements in port facilities and cargo handling to trade missions abroad that have been conducted by both public and private interests.

Accelerator Will Aid GM Research

NEW YORK (AP)—Radiation Dynamics Inc. said Wednesday it has received a $171,300 order from General Motors Corp. for the automobile industry's first high current, high-voltage electron accelerator.

Radiation said the 1.5 million-volt device produces high-intensity radiation. Known as a dynamitron, the accelerator steps up conventional electric power to high voltages, then releases a beam of charged particles of an intensity sufficient to change the atomic arrangement of materials placed in their path. It will be used in industrial research.

The root of the may apple is poisonous but, when it is dried, it is used in medicine.

IT'S QUICK AND EASY to make modern or old fashioned frames for pictures and mirrors if you cut them out of plywood — no clamps or special moldings. Pattern 301, which gives directions and actual-size guides for different types, is 35c. This pattern also is in the Jig-saw Packet No. 33 which contains more than a dozen full-size designs for $1.

Guard Numbers Plans Daily Flight To Attend College Boost Slight

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan National Guard reports its final revised strength will be 10,331 officers and men, slightly more than the present strength of 10,005.

Gov. George Romney rejected a troop list proposed by the National Guard Bureau in Washington, D. C. on Aug. 2.

The governor contended the troop strength was inadequate and the allotment of units lacked capabilities of command, control, communications and logistical support.

The Guard Bureau submitted a second revised troop list on Nov. 3 which added 10 units and 326 men for the 10,331 total. The governor approved the second list.

The realignment will go into effect Jan. 31 with final approval by the Guard Bureau.

Maj. Gen. Clarence Schnipke, state adjutant general, said Michigan's selected reserve force to back up the regular army will have a troop strength of 819 men under the revised status.

Plans Daily Flight To Attend College

FREMONT (AP)—Roger Crowder, 28, of Fremont, a junior at Grand Valley State College, wants to live at home and commute the 46 miles to the college near Grand Rapids. But Crowder wants to fly instead of drive.

Married and the father of two, Crowder holds a full-time job at Gerber Products Inc., at Fremont and figures flying would save him at least one hour a day in driving time.

"That's five hours more sleep a week," he said. His first class begins at 9 a.m. and his job at Gerber starts at 3:30 p.m.

There is one problem with flying to class in his 1939 Luscom single-engine plane. The college has no landing strip and cannot use its limited funds to build a strip for such infrequent use.

Crowder said he plans to talk with farmers near the college to see whether he could use part of a pasture for a landing strip. "I'd even arrange to have it mowed myself," he said. "And I don't think I'd scare the livestock."
